

Recognized Courses in Accounting/Tax Research and Analysis and
Accounting/Business Communications

April 11, 2019

The Texas State Board of Public Accountancy requires each candidate to complete a minimum of two semester hours in accounting research and analysis or tax research and analysis from a recognized college or university using online authoritative literature. The semester hours may be obtained through a discrete course or offered through an integrated approach. If the course content is offered through integration, the college or university must advise the Board which course(s) contain the research and analysis content. Courses identified through integration must dedicate 1 semester hour, or quarter hour equivalent, to research and analysis. Courses used to meet this requirement may not be used to meet the requirement for accounting or business communications described below.

Course(s) identified by a university to meet the requirements for research and analysis in accounting or taxation should primarily address the identification, organization, and integration of diverse sources of information such as online authoritative literature and pronouncements, to reach a conclusion or make a decision; and should analyze accounting and taxation issues by reviewing information, using empirical data and analytical methods, recognizing data in patterned activities, forecasting, and integrating data. CPAs may be asked to conduct research and analysis when providing attest services, professional accounting services, or professional accounting work for clients and/or employers.

The Texas State Board of Public Accountancy requires each candidate to complete a minimum of two semester hours in accounting communications or business communications from a recognized college or university. The course must be upper level and an intensive writing course. The semester hours may be obtained through a discrete course or offered through an integrated approach. If the course content is offered through integration, the college or university must advise the Board which course(s) contain the accounting or business communications content. Courses identified through integration must dedicate 1 semester hour, or quarter hour equivalent, to accounting or business communications. Courses used to meet this requirement may not be used to meet the requirement for accounting or tax research and analysis described above. The AICPA provided the following definition for the accounting or business communications course from the Skills Specifications Outline (SSOs) for the CPA exam.

Course(s) identified by a university to meet the requirements for accounting or business communications should include basic writing mechanics; effective business writing principles, including organization, clarity, and conciseness; ability to exchange technical information and ideas with co-workers and other professionals; prepare documents and presentations that are concise, accurate, and supportive of the subject matter; document and cross-reference work performed and conclusions reached in an accurate manner; assist clients in recognizing and understanding implications of critical business issues by providing recommendations and informed opinions; and prepare and present written work products in the form of memos, letters, opinions, and reports – such as audit reports – to others.

The following listing shows the courses that have been vetted and are recognized by the Board as meeting the requirements described above. Courses with the same or similar names but offered at a different institution will not be recognized as meeting this requirement.
